ENGLAND LEAD IN TEST AGAINST INDIA

FIELDING LAPSES ON PART OF INDIANS

Bombay, Yesterday.
An unbroken fifth wicket partnership of 130 by D. R. Jardine, the England skipper, and B. H. Valentine, the Kent amateur, enabled England to secure a lead of 75 runs over India with six wickets in hand yesterday at the conclusion of the second day's play in the first Test match.

A crowd of 30,000 saw the India innings close for the addition of only 7 runs this morning in fine weather and on a wicket made soft by heavy dew.

Headley Verity, the Yorkshire slow bowler, caused the Indians most anxiety, his 3 wickets costing only 44 runs in 27 overs. Numerous fielding errors aided Walters and Mitchell, England's opening batsmen, in their effort to lay the foundations for a big total in reply to the Indians' score of 219.

Walters was most uncertain at the start, being extremely lucky on several occasions, but once he settled down he off-drove with the greatest confidence.

Disaster soon befell England when Mitchell was completely beaten by one of Nissar's faster ones, 12-1-5. Barnett, however, remained at the wicket while 55 runs were scored (Continued on Page 18).

FAR EAST NAVAL CONFERENCE

Singapore Meeting Fixed For January.

ADMIRAL DREYER ATTENDING

London, Yesterday.
The British Admiralty announce that the next periodical conference of Far Eastern Naval Commanders has been arranged to take place in Singapore, in January.—Reuter.

Among those attending the conference will be Admiral Sir Frederick Dreyer, K.C.B., C.B. (Civil), C.B. (Mil.), C.B.E., Commander-in-Chief, China Station.

Admiral Dreyer leaves the Colony for Singapore on January 9, on the Flagship, H.M.S. Kent, and on arrival at Singapore will transfer his flag to H.M.S. Suffolk, returning on the latter ship to the Colony while the Kent proceeds to England for her re-fit.

Important Meeting.

London, Later.
The London Morning Post in a leading article, to-day emphasises the importance of the Far Eastern Naval Conference in view of the growing realisation of the inadequacy of the defences of Australia and New Zealand, and also the incomplete state of the Singapore base, which is not expected to be finished before 1939 at the present rate of construction.

The remaining expenditure is $2,750,000. Of the estimated $7,000,000 the Federated Malay States, New Zealand and Hong Kong, together contributed $3,250,000, and the Sultan of Johore presented the base.—Reuter.

PROJECT SPONSORED BY LLOYD'S BANK.

London, Yesterday.

The City is discussing an important banking scheme which has been mooted to aid the recovery of industry through a new Loan Corporation to be formed with the object of financing traders whose requirements are too small to justify a public issue of capital, but for a longer period than the bank advances normally granted.

The first hint of the scheme was given by Mr. J. W. Beaumont Pease, Chairman of Lloyd's Bank, at the last annual meeting of the Bank.—Reuter.

"STRONG ENOUGH TO MAKE ARAKI PAUSE AND REFLECT"

PARIS, YESTERDAY.
A NEW CRYSTALLISATION OF FRENCH FOREIGN POLICY APPEARS TO BE EMERGING FROM THE CONSULTATIONS NOW BEING HELD IN PARIS BETWEEN THE FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTER, M. PAUL BONCOUR, AND DR. EDUARD BENES, THE CZECHO-SLOVAKIAN RAPPOURTEUR OF THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE, ACCORDING TO THE PARIS NEWSPAPER, L'OEUVRE, WHICH SUMS UP THE NEW POLICY AS FOLLOWS:—

No separate conversations with Germany.
No German re-armament, at least not as proposed at present.

No Disarmament Conference outside Geneva, but France and the Little Entente are ready to discuss Disarmament with Germany at Geneva on January 21.

The League Covenant shall be amended only by a completely unanimous vote.

L'OEuvre adds that in view of the apprehensions created by Germany's foreign policy, important discussions were held between the Premier, M. Camille Chautemps, M. Paul Boncour, the Minister for War, M. Daladier, the ex-Premier, M. Herriot, and M. Berenger.

It is understood that all agreed that the firmest attitude towards Germany should be adopted with the countries which agree with France.

In view of this opinion, the report that the Soviet has invited M. Paul Boncour to Moscow is most significant in connection with the idea of a Franco-Russian rapprochement.

Although such a rapprochement has been discussed intermittently for some months, the anticipation that it might create in Germany a fear of "encirclement" has prevented it from being actively pursued.

Another reason for delay was on account of Japan, the opinion being that a friendly attitude by France towards Russia might have repercussions in the Far East, particularly in French Indo-China, in the event of war between Russia and Japan.

The French are now inclined to hold the opinion that these reasons are out of date, in view of Germany's aggressive attitude and the American recognition of the Soviet which decreases the risk of a Russo-Japanese war, L'OEuvre states.

Finally, the Soviet believe that they are strong enough to hold an Army both on the eastern and western fronts simultaneously.

M. Pierre Cot, the French Air Minister, is most impressed with the Soviet Air Force which, he is reported to have told the Chamber of Deputies Foreign Affairs Commission, is strong enough to make the Japanese War Minister, General Araki, pause and reflect.—Reuter.

CHINESE MILITARY MISSION.

Received By Il Duce
In Rome.

Rome, Yesterday.
The Chinese Military Mission which arrived here on December 12, was to-day received by the Italian Premier, Signor Mussolini, and later visited the naval establishment at Leghorn.

The Mission, under General Yang Chien, head of the Nanking Military School, is on a tour of Italy, France and Great Britain, studying military organisation and training. The members of the Mission will be some months abroad.—Reuter.

SIMON TO VISIT MUSSOLINI.

Disarmament And League Reform.

Rome, Yesterday.

The news that Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, is visiting Italy at Christmas has aroused great satisfaction in Rome.

It is understood that Sir John Simon will return from Capri via Rome, where he will meet Signor Mussolini.

No official arrangements have been made for Sir John Simon's visit, but it is believed that the subjects to be discussed will include Disarmament, an attempt to bring France and Germany closer together, and Signor Mussolini's proposals for the revision of the League of Nations.

Sir John Simon plans to leave London on Thursday, next, and after spending two days in Paris will visit Rome, Geneva and possibly Berlin.

M. Paul Boncour plans to visit Warsaw and Prague next week.—Reuter.

VIOLATION OF TANGKU AGREEMENT

Peking, Yesterday.
According to a Chinese telegram from Kalgan, 1,000 combined Manchukuo cavalry and Japanese troops yesterday occupied Hsifengchu, eastward of Tushihkow, and are rapidly advancing southward.

Both General Sung Cheh-yuan, the Charhar Chairman, and General Liu Kuei-tang, the bandit suppression Commander in East Charhar, have telegraphed the Military Council asking for instructions to deal with the situation.

The Chinese authorities are greatly puzzled by this latest development and are discussing measures to deal with "this fresh Japanese invasion of Charhar" which they contend constitutes a flagrant violation of the Tangku armistice agreement.—Reuter's Pacific Service.

They will be taken to Cairo where they will be transferred to a Dutch machine to continue their flight to the Dutch East Indies.—Reuter.

VALIDITY OF GOLD CLAUSE

Upheld By House Of Lords.

BOND HOLDER BENEFITS

London, Yesterday.
The House of Lords has unanimously upheld the validity of the gold clause by reversing the Court of Appeal's judgment against a British holder of a bearer bond of the Societe Intercommunale Belge Delectricite of Brussels, who sought the court's declaration that he was entitled to be paid in gold coin equivalent to the value ruling in the United Kingdom in September, 1928.

The House of Lords decided that the bond clause entitled the holder to be paid, both principal and interest, in gold coin, as claimed, which means that instead of £5.10s. in paper pounds, the holder receives the equivalent of about £8 per cent. in paper pounds.—Reuter.

PROFESSOR WORRIED

GOLD PLAN
NOT ENTIRELY SUCCESSFUL

Budget Unbalanced
By Relief Cost.

STABILISATION REPORT DENIED

Washington, Yesterday.

Professor Warren's gold price policy, so far, has not succeeded in raising commodity prices as expected. Therefore, it is believed that the United States Administration will shortly decide on more extensive foreign purchases of gold, although details are purely speculative.

Professor Rogers, Professor Warren's Yale colleague, admits that the Budget has been badly unbalanced by the public works re-employment programmes.

He describes Professor Warren's monetary policy as relatively conservative, signifying little more than operations on foreign exchanges.—Reuter.

INTERNATIONAL BANKERS CONFER

"Worse than a bad guess" is the United States Administration's view of the possibility of a monetary agreement with Great Britain and France.

Mr. Harrison, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, confessed that he communicated regularly, telephonically and telegraphically with the central banks of England and France and also conferred with the United States Treasury officials weekly.

This, however, did not imply that he had broached currency stabilisation, he stated.—Reuter.

Commodity Prices Held

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegrams, Public Messages, Ordinances, 1894. Received December 16, 9.08 a.m.)

New York, Yesterday.
The New York trade journal, The Analyst, states that the expected advance in industrial activity has failed to materialise, but that the first quarter's steel prospects are reported to be promising.

Commodity prices are steady due to the advancing price of gold.

Fears continue that France will be obliged to abandon gold, the journal adds.—United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

Messrs. Dun and Bradstreet in their business report state that business in the United States is improving faster than at any time in the last three months. Trade is resting on a more stable basis, they assert.

Christmas buying is the largest for three years.

The principal price indices are rising and the feeling as security is growing, the report adds.—United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

Chapter XIV.—TO AND FRO.

(By GERALD BURRARD.)

WHILE Phyllis was attending to her father Sher Khan was rubbing Geoffrey's limbs, and gradually life crept into them once again. Then Geoffrey stood up and stretched out his hand to Sher Khan.

"Thank God, Sher Khan, for a friend such as thou."

"Time for thanks, sahib, when we are out of this. In the meanwhile here are arms."

He unslung Geoffrey's own beloved double 240 from his back and strapped a bandolier of cartridges round Geoffrey's waist. Then from some apparently inexhaustible recess in his clothing he pulled out Geoffrey's long-barrelled Colt revolver, and several paper packets of cartridges, which he gave to Geoffrey to dispose of as he thought fit. Next he handed him four Mills' bombs.

"I could not bear to think of these being left behind at the mission-station, so, unknown to you, I hid them about my person. And now—why, I am glad I did!"

Sher Khan had his 250 Savage rifle slung over one shoulder, and he had hidden his automatic on his person. He then picked up one of the Mausers which the guard had flung away, saw that the magazine was full, emptied the magazine of the others, and gave the rifle and all the cartridges he had thus procured to the missionary, who was engaged, with Phyllis's help, in trying to cover his back with clothing again.

These actions were the work of a very few minutes, and then Sher Khan stood up ready for the fray once more.

"How are we to get out, sahib? Do you know the way?"

"The main gate is the only way and they are sure to be guarding that. I think we had better try and climb through the sky light and leave by the road you came."

With this object in view they began to pull the long table to a position under the skylight, but they had not dragged it far when a volley of shots were fired through the door.

Geoffrey, remembering his experience of the previous night, at once pulled his companions away from such an exposed position.

"Let's try the 'Tiger's' private passage once more," and he led the way back into the 'Tiger's' den. As he recrossed the threshold of that fateful doorway he realised how rash they had been in leaving it open, and wondered why the "Tiger" had not sent a detachment of men along the passage in order to take him and his companions in rear. The fact that the enemy had not adopted this plan showed how demoralised they were for the time being, and Geoffrey blessed Sher Khan's happy thought of the Mills' bombs.

"What are we to do, sahib?"

Geoffrey explained as rapidly as possible the lie of the land. Without a word Sher Khan darted back to the other room, and returned almost immediately dragging the body of the late Li Foo.

"What's that for?"

"I will hold it up as a shield in front of me as I lead the way. It will stop a knife-thrust or a pistol-bullet."

Geoffrey nodded and slid back the door near the couch which has already served them so well.

"A torch?"

Li-Col. Geoffrey Barraclough.

"I have got one," said Phyllis, holding Thompson's!

"And I too, sahib."

Sher Khan led the way down the steps with his grizzly shield in front of him. Geoffrey followed at his heels, his rifle slung over his shoulder, his revolver in one hand, and the other grasping a Mills' bomb in his pocket. Phyllis came next holding his garment as before, and Mr. Merriow again brought up the rear. But this time he was armed with a Mauser rifle.

"What about the main gate?" It was Phyllis who asked the question.

"I've got the key. Thompson showed me where he kept it, in his triumphant gloating last night, and I took it while Sher Khan went back for that body."

The advance was necessarily slow, as Geoffrey did not like to risk a light, but at last they reached the steps which led up the farther door. One by one they ascended, and on the topmost step Sher Khan paused.

"Is there a keyhole? I cannot find one. Ah, here it is. It is dark beyond, or very nearly. I can see nothing. Shall I open the door?"

"Yes, we must go on."

Sher Khan slowly opened the door. It did not make a sound, so smoothly worked the hinges. They all listened. The silence was of the dead. Sher Khan gradually pushed his burden out into the passage in front of him. He himself was about to step out when there was a whirl and a sickening thud. The Pathan felt his gruesome burden almost knocked out of his hands. As it staggered there was another thud on the other side, and the dead body fell to the floor. Geoffrey thrust his revolver past Sher Khan and fired at random; then he heard the Pathan give a grunt of satisfaction and his automatic spoke once more. This shot undoubtedly took effect, as there was the sound of a body falling on the floor of the passage.

Suddenly the light from Sher Khan's torch flashed out into the gloom, and this was the sight which Geoffrey saw.

On the ground lay the body of Max, the head almost severed from the trunk by two mighty cuts which could only have been delivered by heavy swords or axes. Across it was stretched the corpse of another Tibetan obviously the man whom Geoffrey had just shot. Down the passage towards the temple gate appeared a third Tibetan, while across the passage and between them and the main gate was drawn a row of guards armed with rifles. Sher Khan had only flashed the light on for a fraction of a second, but the scene was instantaneously photographed on both his and Geoffrey's brains.

As the light shone out a volley crunched out, but the Pathan was too old a hand to be thus caught, and had stretched his arm out to its utmost limit before he had pressed the switch, while he had withdrawn his body behind the cover of the passage wall. The volley and the torch had betrayed the position of the enemy, and the Pathan quickly flung another Mills' bomb into their closely-packed ranks.

Mainly Women

Usefulness And Beauty Of Lace

Looks So Delicate, Yet Wears So Well.

SOME of the new lace evening frocks are perfectly charming. Never has lace been expressed in more beautiful and delicate colours than it is this season.

Shell-pink lace always gives an impression of fairy-like daintiness, and shell and other pale pinks this season are particularly lovely. Flesh pink is becoming to most women in the evening, even to those with auburn hair who must eschew pink as a colour on daytime occasions.

A lace evening gown is a real economy because it does not crush easily and keeps its freshness for a long time. It emerges from the hands of the cleaners, too, just like new. But a fairly heavy lace with a close pattern should be chosen and not one of the flimsy ones of small design.

Black Lipsticks Used In Paris

BLACK Lipsticks are being used in Paris. Although they are called black the colour is actually a dark prune and not unattractive, combined with a very pale make-up.

New And Useful Idea In Sleeves

MANY evening gowns are now fitted with detachable lace sleeves. This is really a very practical idea, for the sleeves can be worn or not, according to the occasion.

With a short-sleeved evening frock of lace it is a good idea to wear mittens or gloves of the same lace as that of the frock.

Tailored Lingerie

Only Possible Wear With Sheath Frocks.

WHAT to wear under the close-fitting evening dresses of the present mode is a problem that presents itself to many women.

These dresses stand or fall by their line, and the faintest suggestion of pucker or bulge can make all the difference between a frock and failure.

Underwear must be brought down ruthlessly to the minimum, and what is worn must be cut as perfectly as the dress above it.

It is tailored lingerie that gives our dresses that smooth, sleek line and makes our figures look so much better than they really are—lingerie that has been smoothed and fitted, tucked and pinned into place on the figure.

Shape Of Hair-Cut Is Important

For Long And Short Hair Alike.

UPWARD MOVEMENT FROM NAPE OF NECK

WHATEVER you do or do not do with the ends of your hair, the shape of your hair-cut matters more than ever this winter. It always has been highly important, of course, but it has taken a great many years for both hairdressers and women to realise that although Nature may have been beneficent over the quality and colour of the hair and the shape of the head, you can let her down very easily if you do not use her gifts with understanding.

This fact remains as true when the hair is long or semi-long as when it is short. With long hair if necessary, and deciding where the coils or swashes shall be placed. With short hair the way it is cut at the back and sides and the position of the waves (if any) matter most.

The general tendency of this winter's hairdressing, in harmony with this winter's hats, is an upward movement at the back.

You can produce it with long hair swathed across the head and pinned at the sides above the ears. If you prefer, you can have the whole of the back of the head a mass of curls; or, if a certain severity becomes you best, you can have the hair swept in deep waves across the back of your head, to end in several curls behind and above the ear opposite the parting, and in a few curls on the side of the parting itself.

Coiffure Fashion Of To-day

FRIZZY hair has gone out of fashion in just the same way that tight waves must no longer appear near your parting. A sleek head on top, big, generous waves at the side, curls or flat waves or ringlets, to complete the picture. That is smart hair-dressing to-day.

A Scissors Hint

IF a pair of scissors when new and rather tight does not open and shut smoothly, draw your thumb or finger gently up the inside of the edge of each blade two or three times.

This removes grit and dust and slightly lubricates the edge. You will be surprised at the difference it makes.

All-Lace Frocks

Best Suited To Women Over 25.

THE all-lace frock is hardly suitable for the girl in her teens or her early twenties, but if a woman is over 25 lace is a really good choice, especially for the kind of frock which must do for many occasions, including theatre and restaurant wear.

A black lace frock is a great asset in one's wardrobe, and can be quite young-looking, especially if relieved with a touch of flesh pink.

USEFUL SINK STAND

IF a small wooden stand is made with tiny feet and put into a porcelain sink, the washing-up bowl will not scratch or mark the bottom of it.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS FROM THE LAUNDRY

And another thing about Vivella. It never suffers from that "before-and-after" feeling. Vivella always looks as smart and comfortable and fascinating every time it comes back from the laundry as it did the day you bought it. Yes—every time, for one of Vivella's many distinctive virtues is that it won't wear out; its colours never fade, its fabric is born not to shrink or diverge from its pristine shapeliness.

Age cannot wither nor constant use stale its infinite charm. Vivella remains faithful and steadfast, ever superior to hard wear; emerging hale and hearty from the weekly wash tub; proof against sun, against body moisture, against all kinds of climate. Many happy returns to Vivella.

H.K. LADIES WIN DEBUT GAME AGAINST C.B.A.

Jean Dalziel And Joan Churchill Score Twice
CAER CLARK CUP LEAGUE

At Sookunpoo yesterday the Hong Kong Ladies Hockey eleven, holders of the Caer Clark Ladies Hockey Championship for the past three seasons, beat the C.B.A. Ladies by 4 goals to 1 their debut game this season.

The champions scored three times in the first nine minutes, the first goal being scored by J. Dalziel from a corner taken by E. Bell. Immediately afterwards J. Churchill snapped up a pass from Dalziel and made no mistake with her shot, while a few minutes later Mrs. Webber only partially cleared a shot from J. Dalziel, the latter following up to net the third goal.

Four minutes after the resumption J. Churchill brought the Champions' total to four, and five minutes later D. Miles netted for the C.B.A. from an oblique position on the right.

Miss E. Thomson, at centre half substituting for Miss S. Dalziel, the "Y" captain, played a very good game.

Miss E. Rozario was outstanding at centre-half for the Recreio Ladies, while Miss M. Almeida, inside right, and Miss T. Noronha and Miss O. Botelho also played well.

ARMY BEAT CLUB

Triangular Rugby Tournery Surprise.

LLOYD KICKS GOAL FOR DECIDING POINTS

A penalty goal kicked by Pte. Lloyd gave the Army a sensational triumph over the Club by a penalty goal and a try (6 points) to a try (3 points) in the first match in the 1933-4 Triangular Rugby Tournament series at Sookunpoo yesterday.

Fully deserving their win the Army, who were best served by Gould, Martin, and Walker, were superior at forward, and their backs gave their best display of the season.

After a blank first half, in which Hobart was continually beating Bradford for possession in the (Continued on Page 15.)

Prominent Navy Players Absent From Practice.

The Navy practice game was robbed of most of its interest by the fact that Lt. Forbes, Lt. Miers, Lt. Curry, Lt. Linton, and Lt. Evans were all absent yesterday. The Whites, composed of the Navy backs and Army and Club forwards beat the Blues by 16 points to 14. W. E. Peers, the Club Inter-Port forward who played wing three-quarters for the losers, scored two tries for the losers. The combination of Lt. Slater and Lt. St. Clair Ford was the feature of the game.

SAINTS CHECKED BY POLICE

LINCOLNS AND S. CHINA WIN DECISIVELY

COURT RESPONSIBLE FOR BORDERERS' CHECK IN SECOND DIVISION

TWO GOALS IN THE LAST MINUTES OF THE MATCH BETWEEN THE POLICE AND ST. JOSEPH'S ROBBED THE SAINTS OF THE LEADERSHIP OF THE PREMIER SOCCER LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP YESTERDAY AT SOOKUNPOO. THE LINCOLNS EASILY ACCOUNTED FOR THE RECREIO AND THUS REGAINED THEIR POSITION AT THE TOP OF THE TABLE. THEY WILL MEET SOUTH CHINA, LEAGUE CHAMPIONS, AT SOOKUNPOO TO-DAY AT 4 P.M. WHEN A TITANIC STRUGGLE IS ANTICIPATED.

The Artillery revival was continued when they beat the East Lanes to advance a place in the table. The Kowloon side, aided by Yeomans, the Artillery's Interport centre half, collapsed against South China, who showed glimpses of their best form on the eve of a struggle which may quite easily determine the League title. The Club failed to show their true form and the Athletic proved deserving winners.

Clarke, the Lincoln's centre forward who has scored 20 goals in the Third Division, netted four times against the Radio, who conceded eight goals. Court, presented with a penalty against the Athletic, failed to score, and the Borderers were forced to a pointless draw in the Second Division!

FIRST DIVISION.

South China Rout Kowloon.

GLIMPSES OF CHAMPIONS' FORMER DISPLAYS.

Losers' Weak Forwards.

At Caroline Hill, South China, League Champions, easily overcame Kowloon, winning by four clear goals.

Kowloon put up a very poor show and were mainly on the defensive throughout, the Chinese being definitely superior in all departments. The game was very one-sided and gave South China a chance to show that they have lost none of the "pattern-weaving" methods which were so successful last season. Should they reproduce this form in their game against the Lincoln's at Sookunpoo to-day, they will most decidedly triumph.

Fung King-cheong gave a much improved display in partnership with Tam Kong-pak and Wong Mee-shun. Yeomans, the Artillery's ex-interport pivot, was kept on the run by the quick and accurate passing of this trio. Fung sent out glorious passes to the wings and Tam Quee-lung played his best game to date.

Although the opposition was not of the best, South China played delightful football. Their halves fed the forwards well, and Leung In-chun proved he is a suitable partner for Li Tin-sang. Lau Mau will find it hard to regain his place.

Kowloon were better served in defence than attack, Willis and Jones making many fine clearances, and Cord saving many difficult shots in fine style. Whitfield found Yeung Shui-yick too good for him, and the speed of Tay Quee-lung had Timberlake beaten on many occasions. Yeomans played very well indeed, working tirelessly throughout. The Kowloon forwards proved the weakest link. Bliss was wasted on the wing—he was too much inclined to wander into the centre and Lewis was forced to play a lone hand. Blake was the best forward, but in the second half Tong Kwan was accustomed to all the winger's tricks and often came off best.

After 15 minutes Tay Quee-lung scored a glorious goal when he rounded Willis with a great swerve and beat Cord with a fast shot. A minute later Fung sent Tam Kong-pak through to beat the advancing Cord. Near the interval the Chinese went further ahead when Wong Mee-shun went through to score with a great shot.

The Chinese enjoyed all the play in the second half, and Fung King-cheong sent in a fast ground shot which passed underneath Cord's body.

South China: — Wong Wing; Leung In-chun, Li Tin-sang; Tong Kwan, Leung Wing-chui, Lai Kwok-wai; Yeung Shui-yick, Wong Mee-shun, Fung King-cheong, Tam Kong-pak and Tay Quee-lung.
Kowloon: — Cord; Willis, Jones; Whitfield, Yeomans, Timberlake; Bliss, Lewis, Elliot, V. White and Blake.

Dramatic Goals By Green.

POLICE RECOVERY AGAINST THE SAINTS

Game Of Mixed Chances

A game which commenced lively, between St. Joseph's League leaders and the Police, concluded dramatically at Happy Valley yesterday. At the interval the score sheet was blank. The Saints then obtained two goals, and a win for them seemed a foregone conclusion. During the last few minutes Green reduced the lead, and, with barely ten seconds to go, scored the equaliser, the whistle sounding before the ball could be returned to the centre of the field.

Play commenced in poor style, the Saints being well below their usual standard. After midfield exchanges, Fernandes obtained possession, and raced through on his own, only to shoot across the goal.

Commencing the second half the Saints attacked very strongly, and during a scramble round the Police goal Gosano (B) headed through to give the Saints the lead. Following a nice movement, Ward narrowly missed with a good drive. At the other end Marques saved a hot shot from Pilo, and immediately after, Green missed a glorious

The Horrors Of The Next War

England Unprepared
For Battle

Annihilation Danger

(By VISCOUNT ROTHERMERE)

London. BRITAIN'S safety at this moment depends entirely on the forbearance of other nations.Our professional Army, which was never anything more than an imperial police-force, has been cut down. We have lost that superfluity at sea which was our safeguard in times gone by. Worst of all, our Air Force—now the first line of defence, not only of these islands but of the merchant shipping on which we rely for our very existence—has been so reduced that it is hardly large enough to do battle with a Balkan State.The British public's indifference to its danger is due to the fact that it regards national defence as a technical question which may be safely left to military experts.Our national history supplies ample evidence that such confidence is unfounded.Major-General J. E. C. Fuller, one of the ablest of military thinkers, with a most distinguished war record, has frankly stated that:"In the past we have lulled ourselves to sleep on dogmas,
and have been rudely awakened by realities which we have never troubled to foresee. Though we are soldiers, professing soldier-ship, most of us know no more about the science of war than a chimpanzee knows about the science of dynamics."The one thing certain about the next war is that it will be totally different from the last. Modern scientific invention moves at such a pace that military practice needs to be constantly transformed in order to keep up.When this is not done, costly lessons have to be learnt in the course of hostilities. The outbreak of the last war was followed by a tragic series of such discoveries. We were short of machine guns, short of heavy field artillery, short of the right kind of shell.Is the next war going to find us even more unprepared?

I say with complete conviction that if we do not immediately equip ourselves with an adequate Air Force this country will, at the very outset of another European conflict, be in deadly danger not only of defeat but of virtual annihilation.Perhaps at this moment WAR has once more escaped from its lair and is moving towards the peoples with giant strides.

Terror From The Air.

If so, we may be sure that it will present itself in a new and more terrible form. The campaigns of the past have begun with mobilisation, with the gradual concentration, equipment, and advance of great masses of men. In 1914 it was three weeks after the declaration of war that the first shot was fired by a British soldier in France.That was the last war that will start that way. Next time, immediately war is declared, the commander-in-chief of the enemy nation will press a button, and 20,000—perhaps 50,000—aeroplanes, laden with bombs and gas, will rise into the air and set off at more than 200 miles an hour to rain destruction on this country.Unless we are ready to meet such an attack, the war—and British existence as a Great Power—will end that same day.The invading aerial army would have scores of different objectives.
Some squadrons would strike directly at our great cities. Fire, destruction, and clouds of poison-gas would in a few moments reduce them from the orderly communities we know to a pandemonium of panic. The roads leading out into the open country would be blocked with fugitives fighting each other to escape from such devastation as the world has never seen.

Starvation Menace.

Those who remained behind,
even if they survived the aerial bombardment, would be almost at once confronted with starvation, for the markets which supply thedaily needs of these vast centres of population would have been destroyed or hopelessly disorganised.The railways would come to function, for other detachments of the air-raiders would smash the terminals, the goods stations, and the junctions which are essential to their working.The London docks, the main gateway for the imported food and other merchandise necessary to our existence, would be rendered unapproachable for shipping. All British vessels in the narrow seas surrounding these islands would be in immediate danger of being torpedoed, not by submarines groping almost blindly under water but by aeroplanes picking them out from high overhead and swooping down to sink them at point-blank range.What could battleships at Plymouth, Portsmouth or the Firth of Forth do to ward off this swiftly moving, all-pervading onslaught from the air? They themselves would be almost helpless targets for the swarms of aircraft that would be constantly attacking them. If they made for the open sea they would be hunted like rats until their destruction had been achieved.Military centres like Aldershot, Salisbury Plain, and Caterick could be turned into death-traps for the troops that would be concentrating there. Munition works would be wrecked before they had begun to operate. The whole of the damage that the most ruthless of invading armies would need weeks to perpetrate could be accomplished in a few hours by mass-attacks from the air.People who think that an attack upon these islands by 20,000 aeroplanes is impossible are simply fooling themselves. Our own Air Force possessed 22,171 machines in October 1918. If the war had lasted another six months it would have had 50,000 in service. And,
of all instruments of war, aeroplanes are the easiest to manufacture swiftly and secretly.Mass Plane Production.
They can be turned out in series as simply as motor-cars. If one single works in Detroit has produced 20,000 motor-cars a week there is nothing to prevent any highly industrialised country from bringing a huge air fleet into existence before the rest of the world has any inkling of it.

MINISTER DEFENDS GERMANY

Dr. Goebbels' Speech To Journalists.

FOREIGN NATIONS KNOCKED

Geneva.
In a remarkable six-thousand words speech delivered to a gathering of the press representatives attending the League assembly, Dr. Goebbels, the German Minister of Propaganda, vehemently defended his Government's record in both Disarmament and the treatment of the Jews.

"Everywhere one sees, not Disarmament, but re-armament going on—except in Germany," he exclaimed.

"We cannot and will not abandon hope that an understanding is possible."

"It is impossible to divide the world for all eternity into victors and vanquished."

"Germany is ready and determined to co-operate in the solution of this great crisis to the best of her ability."

Declaring that the words 'revenge' and 'war' must be expurgated from the international vocabulary, the German Minister challenged his audience to point to a single act on the part of Herr Hitler or his government that would justify war suspicions.

Dr. Goebbels frankly admitted that in the course of the national revolution in Germany, anti-Jewish "incidents" caused by "uncontrollable elements" might occasionally have occurred, but he added, "one has to remember that the Jews in Germany at that time were exercising a decisive influence on the whole intellectual life of the nation."

He went on to twit foreign nations with protesting against Germany's "defensive" action in this respect, and at the same time being unwilling to absorb the Jews who emigrated from Germany.

Dr. Goebbels also spoke of the German conception of democracy.

To suggest that the people should govern themselves was completely to misinterpret the principle of democracy, he argued. Peoples could not and did not want to govern themselves, he continued. Their sole desire was to be well-governed and in this respect the German nation was a happy one.—Reuter.

M. Georges Mandel, who was the closest associate of Clemenceau during the historic war-Premiership of that great French statesman, warned the Chamber of Deputies last Thursday that "Germany is building bombing aeroplanes, and is in a position to turn out 2,500 machines a month."

A great deal of nonsense is talked about the impossibility of finding pilots for such an Air Force. Any intelligent and fit young man can be taught to fly an aeroplane in a fortnight. Hundreds of them have learnt in this country during their spare time in summer evenings. At the beginning of the last war, five hours' solo flying qualified a pilot to go on active service. Even in 1917 the minimum required before proceeding to France was only 35 hours. A nation like Germany, with hundreds of thousands of trained, disciplined, and keen young athletes, could create an efficient Air Force in a few weeks.

Too Many Old Ideas.
Old-fashioned, pre-war ideas about flying are far too prevalent in this country. We talk of a mass aerial invasion as if it were as improbable as a visitation from Mars. It is, in point of fact, a perfectly practicable present-day enterprise.

Britain will never know security until she has the strongest Air Force in Europe. We have been gambling for years upon the totally baseless assumption that other nations would reduce their aerial armaments. They are steadily increasing them.

As far back as February, 1932 the Government, in introducing the Air Estimates, said:

"Despite general recognition of the growing dependence of the British Empire on air power, no serious power, the serious disparity between the first-line

MARRIAGE EPIDEMIC IN BOSNIA

Bosnia.
Jajza, in Bosnia, was proud of its Bachelors Club—until a marriage epidemic struck down all the members.

The last nail was hammered into the club's coffin when its 60-year old President eloped with a 19-year-old singer from one of the local cafes.—Reuter.

strength of the Royal Air Force and foreign air services remains . . . His Majesty's Government would view the situation with anxiety but for their earnest hope and expectation that the Disarmament Conference will bring about a reduction in air armaments.

This was 21 months ago, and there are still foolish people looking for some practical results from that conference.

We cannot afford to go on being defended merely by "earnest hopes and expectations" that have no foundation of fact. Until we have an initial 5,000 war-planes we shall be in the gravest danger from the air.

Not a penny should be spent on increasing any other form of national armaments until this wide breach in our defences has been closed. In Great Britain, as in France, powerful vested interests, professional and industrial, have grown up around the Navy and Army. These can pull many strings to divert the nation's money to those purposes with which they are identified. Such pressure must be firmly resisted. The nation's need is aircraft. It can no longer be neglected. Otherwise, we shall expose ourselves and our country to terrible disaster.

Aviation In The Far East.

LONG apathetic to aviation matters Hong Kong is at last becoming aware of the increasing importance of flying, and the development of Kai Tak as a first-class airport, the establishment of a flying school next year and the negotiations now being conducted for air services connecting Hong Kong with the air routes to Singapore and Hanoi should soon result in the entry of the Colony into the commercial aviation arena. But the delay consequent upon the past lethargic attitude may prove costly in view of the competition of those nations who, through enterprise and initiative, have gained a firm footing in Far Eastern aviation. An idea of the calibre of the foreign challenge may be gained from yesterday's cable announcement that a Dutch air mail liner attempted to fly from Amsterdam to the Dutch East Indies in three-and-a-half days. In range, speed, and efficiency, flying aircraft are advancing with astonishing rapidity in Europe and America, and more recently in Britain especially. It is clear that the coming linking of Eastern Asia and Australia to the Anglo-Indian air-route is of vast commercial importance. The Singapore-Australia section of the longest world air-route is of great concern to Britain, and it is not merely the eagerness of Imperial Airways to have a hand in the Australian contract which arouses desire overseas for utmost efficiency in the new service. British business firms are interested in the closer mail and passenger contact quite as ardently as Australia can be. As a cogent example, the Manchester Chamber of Commerce is agitating for the speediest opening of air-mails past Singapore to China in aid of British cotton exports, thus beating American mail connections with the China coast. Air services are rapidly becoming essential to modern trade. The Dutch did not offer a subsidy-free air service from Australia cities through Batavia to Europe simply as an act of neighbourly charity. Trading nations are vying with each other with tremendous energy for air transport custom. Many schemes are now being considered for a cross-Atlantic air service, which has now become a practical aim. The high speed and reliability nowadays achieved through engine improvement and aircraft design have brought within view the regular spanning of the Atlantic as the next great British enterprise. The Germans have started an Africa-Brazil service, with a stationary ship at North Atlantic service with the aid of anchored floating aerodromes. Britain is aiming at non-stop flying-boat services between Europe and Newfoundland. The launching at Hull a few weeks ago of a 17-ton "flying battleship" for the Royal Air Force is a sign of what is coming. It mounts a gun firing high-explosive shells at the rate of one hundred a minute, and will fly at a speed of 132 miles an hour, with a range up to 1,500 miles. Apart from its significance as a fighting machine, there is provocative food for thought in the possibilities of ocean air services with such new flying boats — or, rather, flying ships. An American air-mail company already runs a flying-boat service through the West Indies to South America, and with this company the British Imperial Airways company is proposing to co-operate with a trans-Atlantic service to Bermuda, Bermuda becoming an international airport. Already the eastern Mediterranean is laced with flying-boat services — Italian lines, especially, along the northern littoral through Greece to Constantinople, and British services on the Imperial routes from Egypt via Athens to Brindisi, and to Brindisi direct. The flying boat is the naturally more reliable aircraft for traffic in the Pacific. From Calcutta eastward, and especially from Calcutta to Singapore, is possibly one of the most trying flying stretches anywhere in the world, because of the annual monsoonal storms and rainfall. The crew of the Astraea, the R.A.F. machine which recently made a trial flight from England to Australia, noted, as have all earlier flying men, the perils of land machines over the jungles and high mountains in Malaya and Siam, where no emergency landing ground is possible for hundreds of miles. Even aerodromes at regular landing stages there are frequently waterlogged. Flying boats are more expensive to operate than land aeroplanes, but reliability of service is of greater importance than any other factor, and it seems certain that ultimately the Calcutta-China and Calcutta-Darwin route must be developed as the Mediterranean and West Indian services have been developed — by supermarine craft.

SHIPS STEER BY HOTEL LIGHT.

Peculiar Position At Esperance Harbour.

Perth, West Australia.
Mariners of old steered by the stars. Most mariners to-day steer by the compass, but if mariners want to get into Esperance Harbour at night time, they must steer by the light in the window of the Esperance Hotel.

That was told by a deputation to the Minister for Works, Mr. McCulloch.

The General Manager of Westralian Farmer, Ltd. (Mr. J. Thomson) said that masters of incoming ships had to fix their bearings at night by the juxtaposition of a solitary red light at the end of the jetty to a light shining from Hotel window on shore.

"If it's after hours then the ship puts out to sea until sunrise," explained Mr. Thomson. — Reuter.

£2,000,000 CANAL FOR FINLAND.

105-Mile Project Will Assist Commerce.

Helsingfors.
Plans and estimates have been completed for the proposed construction of a £2,000,000 canal, stretching 105 miles and connecting Lake Ladoga and the Baltic port of Viborg.

It is estimated that the canal would transport 900,000 tons of goods annually and give an easier outlet for Finland's timber.

Incoming tariffs, it is estimated, would yield £32,000 annually. The canal would also have great strategic value in wartime. — Reuter.

LONDON

OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

London, November 29.

Lady Hastings And Archer.

In spite of his success Gordon Richardson has never sought Fred Archer's position of social lion. This is brought home by reading Elizabeth Lady Hastings's estimate of Archer in Mr. E. M. Humphries's "Life." She said:

"Archer was great enough to have the truth told about him. He had not always a nice expression, indeed, at times I think it was almost diabolical."

"Nearly all Archer's acquaintances were, to put it vulgarly, spiteful people, and he practically spent his life among them. People in society went simply mad about him and hunted after him. It was their fault more than his: they would not let him alone."

"And through all the flattery and absurdity of all those ridiculous women his manners remained quite unspoil — just perfection."

"Capping" Hunting Motorists.

The proposal of Lord Guilford, the Master of the East Kent, to levy subscriptions on the army of motorists who follow hounds strikes a new note in hunting administration.

The scheme, which advocates a seasonal subscription of three guineas from motoring sightseers and a "cap" of half a crown from non-subscribers, is an attempt both to mitigate a long-standing nuisance and to raise funds for a struggling Hunt.

It is an ingenious idea, and it may succeed. It is suggested to Lord Guilford that he should appoint a field motor-master to lead the sightseers in his own car and to prevent them from head-ing foxes. By combining the virtues of a diplomat and a guide, he would add both to the pleasure of the motorist and to the funds of the Hunt.

"Ranji's" Thames-side Home.

The sale, which has now been completed, of Jamma's House, Ranjitsinhji's riverside house at Staines, will awaken pleasant memories among the great cricket's friends.

It was here that, with his parrot Popsy and his Indian servants in attendance, he loved to entertain the cricket companions of his early days.

He bought the place from Sir Edward Clarke for £30,000 in 1913. His rose gardens were unsurpassed. His lawn tennis court, laid down with the finest Cumberland bowling-green turf, was as good as the Centre Court at Wimbledon.

Ruskin College.

Ruskin College, Oxford, where pacifist undergraduates and the University authorities recently clashed, is a melancholy red brick building, well away from the centre of the city. It is not part of the University, though its students are allowed to take diplomas in economics.

The college does not, as has been suggested, enjoy any special "extraterritoriality." Its students, not being members of the University, are not subject to proctorial authority, but the proctors have power to forbid undergraduates access to any building in Oxford and to arrest them if they are found there.

An even wider power is wielded by the Vice-chancellor and the Mayor, acting in concert. They can refuse any person of whom they disapprove entry to the city.

The power is mostly used only in the interests of morality, but the late Dr. Farnoll, when he was Vice-chancellor, banned both Miss Maude Roydon and Dr. Marie Stopes in this way.

Mr. Churchill's Cigar.
It is recorded that Mr. Churchill smoked a big cigar when giving his evidence before the India Joint Select Committee. Such indulgence for a witness is unusual.

Socialist members have, however, been seen in their shirt-sleeves pointing their arguments with their pipe-stems in Standing Committees of the House of Commons.

Procedure text-books say nothing about smoking; discretion rests with the chairman. And many argue that business goes better in a smoke-clouded room.

Thomas Gray and Fives.

The literature of the game of Fives — whether the complicated Eton variety, originally played against the Chapel walls, or the simpler Rugby one — is limited.

There are 80 fascinating pages about them in the new Lonsdale Library volume, edited by Lord Aberdare and others. The book deals with the whole ancient family of small ball games.

Mr. David Egerton, who writes of Eton Fives, pleasantly assumes that Thomas Gray, in his "Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College," was thinking of Fives in the lines:

What idle progeny succeed
To chase the rolling circle's speed
Or urge the flung ball?

In Sir George Thomas's mainly technical chapters on badminton, which has outstripped all the other games in popularity, we are reminded that to a rainy day and a house-party seeking new diversion at Badminton, Gloucestershire, fell the honour of involving the game from the children's battledore and shuttle-cock toys.

Mr. James Parr's Return.
Sir James Parr, who after an absence of four years is returning to London as High Commissioner for New Zealand, will be remembered as a vigorous Dominion advocate of the policy of Empire Free Trade.

When he retired from his previous term of office as High Commissioner in 1929, Sir James wrote to Lord Beaverbrook, stating his intention to devote his future time and thought to the furtherance of Empire Free Trade.

During the last four years, as leader of the New Zealand Legislative Council, he has carried out his self-appointed task with such energy that to-day most of the people of New Zealand are in favour of the policy.

A Good Speaker.
Sir James, who is now in his sixty-fifth year, is New Zealand born and bred. His family comes from Nottinghamshire.

After building up a practice as a lawyer, he has filled numerous high offices in his own country, including the posts of Minister of Education, Minister of Health, Minister of Justice, and Postmaster General.

He has a fine rugged personality, is a Freemason, and has an Empire-wide reputation as an after-dinner speaker.

University Hoolligans.
The behaviour of the Oxford and Cambridge undergraduates who made violent pacifist demonstrations, which in one case ended in a free fight, round their respective war memorials on Armistice Day is a disgrace to every member of both Universities.

Whatever a man's political views, decency requires him to show reverence to the memory of those who were killed in the war. To provoke a brawl when they are being honoured is a squalid piece of bad manners.

Since the university authorities seem unable to control these young hoolligans' excesses, it has been suggested that their fellow undergraduates procure some tar. The pacifists already have the feathers.

Royal Medals for Poetry.
The institution of King's Medals for poetry is a pleasing novelty, and many will look forward with eagerness to the first awards.

The committee is a strong one, having the Poet Laureate as chairman, in Mr. de la Mare perhaps the only living poet whom all other living poets admire, a poet and a scholar in the person of Mr. Laurence Binyon, a scholar and a poet in Professor Gilbert Murray, and a psychologist and critic in Mr. J. A. Richards.

REFORMED CURRENCY FOR AUSTRALIA

Conference Suggests Decimal Basis.

CHANGE NOT PRACTICAL

Melbourne, Victoria. The Victorian United Australia Party Conference decided that the time was opportune for the Federal Government to introduce legislation to provide for a reformed currency on a decimal basis. Only one delegate opposed the motion.

It was explained that the currency suggested would retain the £1, 0, 0, florin, and the shilling but would provide for the florin to consist of ten cents, each of which would be of the value of 2.4 pence. One shilling would represent five cents.

Mr. H. L. Wilkinson declared that the time to make this simple change was never more opportune. At a time when production costs and the price levels of commodities were likely to be subject to sharp changes, the change should be altered without a week's disturbance of business.

Several speakers said that it would be difficult to exaggerate the advantage which decimal—coinage would give in the saving of time and accountability in business.

The proposed reform, it was stated, would be limited to coinage. For it could not be applied to weights and measures without altering the standards.—Reuter.

Proposal Not Favoured

Canberra, Federal Capital Territory. In official quarters, it is regarded as unlikely that the Commonwealth Government will give serious consideration to the suggestion made in Melbourne that a decimal system of coinage, based on the £, the florin, and the shilling, and involving the replacement of the penny with a cent piece valued at 2.4 should be adopted. Proposals that the basis of the Australian monetary system should be altered to incorporate the decimal system have been investigated from time to time. Although such a change is claimed to possess theoretical advantages, the practical value, it is considered, would not be sufficient to justify the confusion which would result while the change was being made.—Reuter.

News In Brief.

At the meeting of the Rotary Club, next Tuesday, Dr. L. G. Saunders will give the address on "Strange Lives," delivery of which was postponed last week.

His Majesty the King has not been advised to exercise his power of disallowance with respect to Ordinance No. 10 of 1933, an Ordinance to amend and consolidate the law relating to the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps.

Under the auspices of the Arts Association of the University of Hong Kong, a lecture will be given by Miss S. Margery Fry, J.P., M.A., on "Florence Nightingale" on Thursday next at 5.30 p.m., in the Union Assembly Room of the University. The lecture is open to the public.

A Chinese woman, Tsang Kwai-yin, attempted to commit suicide at 9.45 p.m. on Friday by jumping overboard from the Star ferry boat Golden Star while crossing the harbour from Hong Kong to Kowloon. She was rescued by a fireman named Cheung Hung, who dived into the water and supported her until the ferry-boat stopped and returned to pick them up.

It is announced in the Government Gazette that His Excellency the Governor in Council has ordered the closing of Kowloon Cemetery No. 1, situated at Fo Pang, Kowloon, and has authorized to be used as a European Protestant Cemetery in its place, a piece of land, 11 acres in extent, in Kap Shek Mi Valley, Kowloon, to be known as New Kowloon Cemetery No. 6.

A successful variety concert was given by the Management in the dining room of the Hotel Cecil on Thursday evening, the programme including a Madcap Revue, Black and White Harmony, Gypsy and Spanish Dances, and various songs by Misses Stella Adair and D. Faye, Mr. and Miss Ronaldson, and Messrs. Justice Crouch, Campbell and Barracough. An audience of over 200 attended.

DIOCESAN GIRLS' SCHOOL BAZAAR

Opening Ceremony By Mrs. J. R. Wood.

GROWTH OF THE SCHOOL

Mrs. J. R. Wood, wife of the Honourable the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood, opened the annual Diocesan Girls' School Bazaar, which was held at the School yesterday afternoon.

A large number of parents and pupils attended and enjoyed a delightful afternoon among the many attractions which were offered.

Mrs. Wood, in declaring the Bazaar open, said that she was very pleased when Miss Sawyer, the Headmistress, asked her to open the Bazaar, as the Diocesan Girls' School was the very first school which she visited on her arrival in the Colony nearly 13 years ago. On that occasion she was invited to accompany Lady Kemp, Miss Skipton was then the Headmistress of the School. It was her first acquaintance with a School which both European and Chinese girls attended, and she enjoyed the visit very much.

"The School has grown enormously since that time," Mrs. Wood added. She concluded by wishing the schoolgirls a Happy Christmas and New Year.

In the evening a Flannel Dance was held, attended by many of the old girls of the School.

H. B. DARK BEER.

New Production Of Local Brewery.

The Hong Kong Brewers and Distillers Ltd. have just introduced a new beer, named "H. B. Dark Beer" which will, it is expected, prove very popular.

H. B. Dark Beer has been specially brewed for the colder weather. It has a warming and stimulating effect. Whereas other beer is at its best when it is well cooled, H. B. Dark Beer should be removed from the ice chest about a quarter of an hour before serving. However the Dark Beer contains no preservatives whatsoever, and it is essential that it should be stored in a cold place.

H. B. Dark Beer is made with the same care and of the same excellent materials as H. B. Pilsener. The only difference being that a Ronaldson, and Messrs. Justice Crouch, Campbell and Barracough, longer period of boiling.

BRITISH MANOEUVRES IN BELGIUM

Move Intended During World War.

PEASANTS ALARMED

Ostend. Tactical manoeuvres, which were intended for the World War, are being carried out for the first time by a group of 50 British officers between Nieuport and Raversijde.

These exercises, being performed with the permission of the Belgian Government, will enable the British war office to know the results which would have been obtained if the project (a landing on the Belgian coast behind the German lines) had been carried out in 1917. The plan was abandoned at the time because of the advance of the Allies.

Major-General W. G. S. Dobbie, D.S.O., Commandant of the School of Military Engineering, is in charge of the officers.

Considerable alarm spread among the peasants when the British officers were seen landing for the "attack" on the coast.

The visiting officers, who are soon returning to England, visited the Belgian battlefields, principally the sectors occupied during the War by the first British division which relieved the French troops at Nieuport in 1917.

Captain G. A. C. Macnab of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, who is attached to the general staff, witnessed the manoeuvres of the 3rd. corps of the Belgian army which have been taking place during the past few days at Beverloo camp in the presence of Due de Brabant; heir to the Belgian throne.—Reuter.

CHRISTMAS DISPLAY AT SINCERE'S.

Special Attractions For The Children.

CYCLING CIRCUS IN THE ROOF GARDEN

The Sincere Co. have prepared a special Christmas treat for the children in the Roof Garden of their well-known store, where Father Christmas will appear, bringing presents for all his little friends in Hong Kong, everyone of whom will be presented with a candy—miniature of himself.

A Cycling Circus, too, has been arranged, where riders, specially engaged for the occasion, will perform marvellous and breath-taking stunts on their machines.

Then there is a children's playground, where the youngsters will find fun and frolic to their hearts' content and where every visitor may indulge in a variety of indoor sports and pastimes.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC TO-NIGHT.

Hong Kong University Programme.

COMMUNITY SINGING OF CAROLS

A very enjoyable hour of Christmas music is promised for this evening at 9 o'clock in the Great Hall of the University, when a choir consisting of members of the University Christian Association and friends will, under the able leadership of Mr. R. Baldwin, A.T.C.I., present a varied programme of carols.

The soloist will be Mrs. Mathison, who requires no introduction. A feature of the evening will be the community singing of well-known carols.

Everyone will be welcome, and no tickets of entrance are required. On retiring, friends will have an opportunity of contributing to two very worthy objects, the Hong Kong Society for the Protection of Children and the Street Sweepers' Shelter, and thus help to bring some of the gladness of this Season to those whose lot seldom rises above dreary drudgery.

Dangers Of Foolish Imaginings

A Little More Optimism Needed In Life

TOO MUCH "SUPPOSING"

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

The greatest soldier and servant that any cause has ever known was in prison at Philipp. With him was his fellow-worker Silas. They had been pretty badly treated, then beaten, and their feet placed in the stocks. But even such trying conditions as those, they never lost their courage, or their hope.

Suddenly there was an earthquake, which so shook the prison that the doors flew open. The jailer at once got into a panic. If these notable prisoners escaped, he was in danger of his own life, so (we are told) he drew his sword, "supposing" them to have been fled, and was about to kill himself, when Paul shouted out that they were still there. The rest of the story makes rather wonderful reading, but for the purposes of this article, I only want to mention that one word "supposing".

Our first thought naturally would be to say what a fool the man was. Why not wait and see if they really had gone, before starting to take his life? Why meet trouble half way? And quite right too! But you and I are pretty good at supposing things too!

When we were children in the nursery, our first games were chiefly made up of "supposings". Our first little stories were the supposings of fairy tales. Then as we grew up, they took a different turn, and not always for the best. The ones of our youth at least did no one any harm. The ones we have to-day unfortunately are so often inclined the other way.

Sometimes our supposings hurt ourselves.

Cowper at the age of 31 was offered the well-paid job, as a Reader-in-the-House-of-Commons. He declined the position, on the grounds that he did not think he would be able to stand up before that Assembly, and hear the sound of his own voice. He supposed he was not up to it, and he was not.

Again and again men refuse to take on jobs because they fear they can't hold them down. You have only to imagine that you are ill, or going to be, to find yourself well on the way towards it.

Question Of Imagining.

Go through life imagining that you are a weak, poor insignificant person, and the world will clap that very label on your back and go its cheerful way. Suppose the world is looking and it will.

A first class burglar will tell you that next to getting into a house, the problem is how to get out. To be a Raftes, or a Bill Sykes, you want one eye at the back of your head. But life is not a burglary, and success only comes to the man who faces it with both eyes to the front, breast forward, "forsaking" the things that are behind, and pressing on towards the mark.

Instead of supposing that we are not fit, or competent, let us suppose that we are, that we can nail down the job, whatever it may be, better than the man who has it last.

In short, put a little more optimism into life. An optimist (I read recently) is a man who, when he has an ache in every bone, thanks heaven that he isn't a herring,—and there is a lot of truth in it.

Keep A Bright Outlook.

Above all let us cleave to the sunnier side of doubt. The sudden cable or telegram always spells disaster, before we even open it. As long as things are in the future, let us leave them there, and hope for the best.

Again, by our supposings we often hurt others.

It sometimes happens that someone whom we know very well, and who usually greets us with a smile, passes us by without any kind of recognition, and without pausing to find a reason, we tell the world that we have been given the bird, or the cold shoulder; whereas the truth of the matter may very well be that the other person has been suffering from a sick headache, or completely failed to see us. Here again our supposings are wrong.

We are far too much inclined to judge our fellow-men without knowing all the facts, and therefore not being able to make allowances. We condemn others without knowing their temptations. Anyway, what may be very easy for us, may be very difficult for them. There is only One Who really knows,—let us leave these judgements to Him.

A Christmas Gesture.

Let us, in our supposings, imagine the best of others, instead of the worst. Christmas is almost on us,—the season of goodwill, and friendship, and good cheer. What about burying the old hatchets, and carrying into the New Year the principle of supposing the best, instead of the worst of others?

Last of all, by our supposings we sometimes wrong God our Father.

We call Him "Father" in our prayers, but how far exactly are we prepared to trust Him as such? There are some people who keep a diary of all their doings every day. Others keep a record of every penny they spend (a very good but sometimes a startling business). Others keep a record of the weather. Have we ever thought of keeping a record of the number of times we have feared the worst, and it has not happened, when disaster has been impending, and it has blown over, when we have not known which way to turn in the darkness, and suddenly the light has come, and the way made clear before our feet? If we did, we should find that in the course of a year, we had compiled a pretty good sized book, and it would have made us a great more trustful of the care and guidance, and love of God, and we should come to realise just what His Fatherhood means.

Instead of supposing Him to be far away, and unmoved by the trials and troubles of His children, we should learn that He is always by our sides, holding up one end of the cross that is bearing us down, not forcing His attentions upon us, but there when He is needed.

Let us then in our supposings in future, try to imagine the best of ourselves and not the worst, the best for our fellowmen, and above all, the best from God our Father.

THIS WORLD OF OURS.

ODD FACTS OF SCIENCE IN EVERYDAY LIFE.

There are seven metallic elements lighter than aluminum.

Adjustable to pots of various sizes, a bracket has been invented to hold a flower pot on a wall.

The production of long wave radio sets for the Chilean market has been begun by a Santiago firm.

Ventilators to be fitted into stove pipes have been invented to draw heat and odors from kitchens.

Since 1927 there has been a steady increase in the production and consumption of leather in Cuba.

Billboards are being made of aluminum cable and wire mesh, the letters being attached to the latter.

Inventions patented in India during the last fiscal year exceeded the number for any previous year.

A metal device has been invented to be attached to a package of flour to sift it as it is poured out.

Three wheeled automobiles built in France for amateur racers have attained a speed of 88 miles an hour.

GOLD THROWN IN GUTTER

Pursued Thieves Drop Booty.

DARING RAID IN LONDON

London.

A gold ingot was thrown into the gutter in a London street during a scuffle with escaping thieves.

The men leapt out of a motor-car in one of the principal streets in Hatton-garden, London, and set upon a messenger of a firm of bullion brokers who was carrying an ingot.

The ingot was wrapped up in a brown paper parcel. Another messenger was also carrying an ingot.

A fierce struggle followed when the messengers were attacked from both sides by the men from the motor-car. One ingot fell on to a doorstep, and bits were chipped off it.

Carrying the other ingot, the men dashed back into their car and drove away pursued by other motor-cars.

There was a collision before the cars had gone far.

The fleeing men jumped out of their car, and slipped away in the excitement, throwing the ingot into the gutter as they did so.—Reuter.

GREAT SUCCESS OF PANTOMIME.

Hopes Of Repeating Performance.

"QUEEN OF HEARTS" AT THE HELENA MAY

Before a large and enthusiastic audience the children's pantomime, "The Queen of Hearts," concluded with a grand finale at the Helena May Institute on Friday afternoon. Every seat was occupied for the final showing and the performance went with a swing from start to finish.

Great credit is due to the producers, Mrs. O. C. Womack and Mr. Oscar Eager, for the splendid results they have achieved, also to the entire cast, who gave of their very best to make the pantomime a popular success.

It is to be hoped that arrangements can be made to repeat the production at a later date, for it is felt that many have been disappointed in not witnessing this excellent children's entertainment.

SAINTS LOSE SOCCER LEADERSHIP

Ho Ka Keung scored the first goal fifteen minutes after the commencement when he took a perfect pass from Fung King Yu to place the ball well beyond Rodger's reach. The second goal had a humorous touch about it, and was very unexpected — particularly by the Club's custodian. Ho Ka Keung dropped a short from mid-field which had every appearance of going out of play — Rodger evidently thought so for he left his goal to collect it only to find the ball had dropped into an open goal.

The Club were more at home during the second half and pressed frequently. Lo Kwok Ki, the Athletic's goalkeeper, played wonderful football at this stage and saved many good shots from Howard. The third Chinese goal was, however, added when the Athletic were being very hard pressed. Li Kwok Ki cleared, and Fung King Yu took the ball into the Club's undefended area before passing to Ho Ka Keung who scored his third goal with a shot to the top left hand corner. Rodger having no chance.

The Club's improvement was rewarded when, during a scramble in the goalmouth, Howe bundled the goalkeeper and ball into the net. From the kick-off the Athletic ran through and Ho Choy Yui scored their fourth goal. The Club's second goal, the last of the game, was netted by E. Strange just before full time.

Club: — Lawson; Hynes, S. Strange; Robertson, Skinner, Duncan; Fowler, Hill, Howe, E. Strange, and Bickford.

Artillery's Second Successive Win.

EAST LANCES BEATEN BY ODD GOAL.

Knight Scores Decider.

The Artillery registered their second successive victory when they defeated the East Lances, at Kowloon by 3 goals to 2.

The Gunners just deserved their win, their defence played exceedingly well and their hustling forwards snapped up their opportunities in fine style.

Play travelled quickly from end to end, Wroe breaking up a threatening attack and Seal sending in a good centre which Ball cleared well. Allan gave Seal a chance to score, but the winger's shot was wide. From the goal kick, however, the Artillery took the lead, Snooks gathering the ball from a weak kick and running through to beat Harmsworth.

The East Lances tried hard to level the scores, and after strong kicking Lawson sent O'DONNELL between the backs to score the equaliser. There were then a series of exciting struggles round the East Lances goal, Harmsworth clearing well from Snooks at the expense of a corner. Birmingham gave the Artillery the lead when he sent in a very hard shot after a smart turn.

After the interval the game improved greatly and play was very fast, each side attacking in turn with the defences outstanding. The Lances forwards combined excellently, and Allan had to give of his best to hold them at bay. The Artillery nearly went further ahead when Woods' shot was cleared from under the cross-bar with Harmsworth beaten.

The East Lances then raced away and O'Donnell went through to scramble the ball past Combey.

The East Lances strived hard to net the winning goal, but near the end the Gunners forced the pace and Knight broke through to give the Artillery the points.

East Lances: — Harmsworth; Ball, Gorman; Rushwell, Thompson, Power; Sandford, Lawton, O'Donnell, Woods and Salmon.

Artillery: — Combey; Allan, Wt. Wroe; Rogers, Pardoe, Worthington; Sb. Snooks, Knight, Birmingham, Woods and Seal.

Lincolns Score Five Against Recreio.

MARQUES PENALISED FOR CARRYING

Higgins Scores Twice

At Kings Park yesterday the Lincolns' premier side recorded an easy victory at the expense of the Recreio, emerging victors by five goals to nil.

From the kick off the Lincolns swept down the field and McGuinness went very close with a good effort. From a cross by Baldry, Higgins took a shot at goal, and Marques made a wonderful save. Continuing the pressure, McGuinness skimmed the crossbar with a great drive from 25 yards.

Breaking away on the left, Hocquard ran well down the wing before sending over a well judged centre, which Higgins converted in great style, to open the scoring. After this reverse, the Recreio improved, but keen tackling, followed by splendid clearances by Ash, nullified their efforts.

Cork was feeding his forwards with long passes, and kept them continually on the move. From another breakaway, this time on the right wing, Baldry narrowly missed with a first-time effort. The ball seldom left the Recreio area, and just before the interval, following a misunderstanding between Delgado and Marques, Higgins was presented with an easy chance, and made no mistake.

The second half opened with even exchanges around midfield, until the Lincolns once more attacked, and Marques, in attempting a clearance, was penalised for carrying. From the free kick, taken just inside the goal area, McGuinness placed the Lincolns further ahead.

A breakaway by the Recreio forwards was easily repulsed by Deakin, who cleared well, and thereafter the Recreio were continually on the defence, the Lincolns completely dominating the game. After 20 minutes play Cork received the ball, and from 30 yards range found the net with a beautiful drive. From the restart the same player missed narrowly with a lightning like effort. Ridley obtained the fifth and last goal following a corner conceded by Silva Netto. Hocquard took the flag kick, and Ridley netted.

Lincolns: — Deakin; Roden and Ash; Dudley, Cork and Bett; Baldry, McGuinness, Higgins, Ridley and Hocquard.

Recreio: — Marques; Silva Netto and Bowen; Goncalves, Delgado and Maher; Castilho, Gutierrez, Sousa, Gomes and Pereira.

SECOND DIVISION.

Royal Navy Go Nap At Valley.

YOUNG INDIANS WELL BEATEN.

The Young Indians suffered a heavy defeat at the hands of the Navy at Happy Valley yesterday, the sailors winning by five clear goals.

Fairless opened the scoring for the Navy, following a miskick by Dean, the Navy forward giving Ramzan no chance with a hard shot.

Commencing the second half a goal in the lead the Navy attacked from the kick off, and the pressure on the Young Indians' goal was seldom relieved. Further goals were added by Chappeil (2), Hinden, and Sherlock. Navy: — Popper; Forest and Guy; Burdon, Mathias and Mitchell; Fairless, Chappell, Sherlock, Sayer and Hinden.

Young Indians: — Ramzan; Dean and Omar Razack, Hussain and Markar; Usuf, Hamet, Azim, Haroon and el Arculli.

Borderers Held To Goalless Draw.

COURT'S MISSED PENALTY

The Borderers and Athletic played seventy minutes of hard football at Happy Valley without either side scoring.

Just before the interval, the Borderers were awarded a penalty 'hands', but Court shot straight at Lu Ho-chin.

Athletic: — Lu Ho-chin, Chong T-pai, Chan Lai-cheung; Lo Chau chol, Chan Sui-man, Lau Ping-pai; Chan Cheong-yin, Chan Yin-cheung, Lo Chai-wan, Cheung Moon-wing and Kwok Young-wing.

Borderers: — Williams, Jenkins, Suter, Williams, Court, Whelan; John, Herbert, Morris, Marshfield and Searle.

P. White Scores All Important Goal.

KOWLOON BEAT CLUB.

At the Valley yesterday Kowloon beat the Club by the only goal scored.

The only goal of the game was scored by P. White. From an attack on his own goal, White made a brilliant run down the length of the field to send in an apparently easy shot at Farrow who made a poor attempt to save. On the run of the play, a draw would have been a more satisfactory result. He was not too heavily tried.

Kowloon: — Boyes; Everest, Docherty; Hopkins, Gran, Follery; P. White, Cutler, White, Reece, Whitehead.

Club: — Farrow; Low, Ralston; McKellar, Boyd, Gamble; Fisher, Bell, Duncan, G. Williams, Sloane.

Third Division.

LINCOLNS ROUT RADIO

The Lincolns third string gained another overwhelming victory yesterday when they defeated the Valley.

Clarke again proved the most prolific scorer, obtaining four of the total, while the remainder were obtained by Dudley (2), Harper and Reeson.

BORDERERS TRIUMPH

At Happy Valley yesterday a keen tussle resulted in the Borderers winning by 3 goals to 1. Nelson, Purcell and Morgan netted for the winners, while Pym scored for the Medicals.

RECREIO SECURE POINTS

The Engineers went down heavily at King's Park, the Recreio winning by 4 clear goals.

Alvis, Santos, Castilho (penalty) and Campus scored the winners' goals.

NAZI COURIER WALKS INTO "ENEMY CAMP"

Comrades Betrayed By Thoughtlessness.

CARRIED INCRIMINATING PAPERS

Vienna.

The thoughtlessness of a Nazi courier has resulted in imprisonment for a number of Nazi plotters, charges of high treason against a former General and a journalist, and had dealt a serious blow to the Nazi cause in Austria.

Charged with the delivery of important documents to Nazi sympathisers in the frontier area this Nazi courier innocently walked into an Innsbruck Cafe which is a popular resort of the Heimwehr, who are strong opponents of the Nazis.

He was recognised and arrested and the papers seized.

These revealed a plan of Herr Habicht, the exiled Nazi "Commissioner for Austria" to establish an "information service" for the purpose of ascertaining the military and police strength at the frontier.

The proposed head of the information bureau, a retired Major, named Hodny was to have been assisted by a pensioned lieutenant-general and a journalist named Strobel. All three have already been sent to prison for three months and now in addition will have to meet charges of high treason.

Many of the persons of lesser importance mentioned in the documents have also been sentenced.

The organisation of this information bureau had been entrusted by Herr Habicht to Herr Glueck a "brigade leader" for the Tyrol and Vorarlberg of the Austrian legion in Lechfeld near Augsburg.

Glueck compiled a list of Nazi sympathisers suitable for the task and filled out forms giving these persons authority.

The courier was, on his way, to deliver these forms when he was denounced.—Reuter.

HER SEVENTY-THIRD CONVICTION

Two Months' Gaol For Drunkenness.

Cape Town.

For being seen drunk for the 73rd time since 1910, a 50-year-old European woman, Mary Morrison, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment by Mr. E. A. Wollaston at Caledon Square.

Morrison was originally ordered to be detained for three years in the Maritzburg inebriate reformatory, where she has served sentences on three previous occasions.

Mr. Wollaston, however, realised afterwards that such a sentence was illegal without the consent of the person concerned. Morrison would not give her consent, and the hard labour sentence was therefore imposed.

A constable described how he had seen her staggering about and shrieking in Hope Street. She smelt strongly of liquor. Morrison denied that she was guilty.—Reuter.

SALUTED WITH SPADES.

Novel Honour For South African Minister.

Kakamas (Cape).

General Kemp, Minister of Agriculture, had the novel experience of receiving the salute from boys of the local agricultural high school when he arrived here in the course of his tour of inspection of the North-West Cape.

The boys presented arms not with the customary rifles but with spades.—Reuter.

FREE BEER-12 BARRELS

On opening a new hotel at Wiluna, Western Australia, the licensee supplied free beer for an hour.

Twelve barrels were drained dry in those electric 60 minutes. The day was hot and dusty, and a super-heated crowd packed the bar. The barmen had the busiest day in their experience.—Reuter.

STEAMSHIP'S LONG SILENCE

Wireless Officer Taken Seriously Ill.

NO NEWS FOR THREE WEEKS

Durban. A steamship that several years ago ran ashore in a fog off Dungeness and broke in two called at Durban after steaming for 21 days without news of any kind.

The ship's wireless officer became seriously ill on the 31 day voyage from Porto Ferrario, in the Island of Elba, to Durban, and for the last 21 days he was unable to leave his cabin. Thus it was impossible to get in touch either with other ships or the land. Hopes were entertained of signalling to passing vessels with flags or lights to enable the agents of the vessel to know her whereabouts, but no ship was sighted.

The wireless officer was removed shortly after the ship docked in Durban and was taken to Addington Hospital, where it is expected he will remain for some considerable time.

A new wireless officer was found for the ship a few hours before she sailed.

The Furthurton has an interesting history, for several years ago she ran ashore in a fog off Dungeness and broke in two. The two halves were subsequently patched up and towed to different parts, one going to Rotterdam and the other to London. Later the two halves were joined together again.—Reuter.

FOX PICTURE

THE TIGER OF TIBET

Again there came that peculiar metallic clang and whine, while once more the guards broke in confusion with cries of terror. Handgrenades were a new weapon against which they were certainly not staunch, and which produced a maximum effect in the confined space.

Geoffrey could hear Thompson's voice angrily shouting to them to stop firing and exhorting them to be steady. The "Tiger" was evidently in the hall of the temple, with his main force, guarding the only exit.

He briefly described the situation to his companions. "Look here," he said, "the mission is to get out of the courtyard and draw them after us. Then we might leave the courtyard by another passage and get back to the temple hall and gate."

Geoffrey hastily consulted with Sher Khan. Yes, sahib, it is as good a plan as any other, if that is really the only way out. I don't mind a fight in an open courtyard, but I hate grubbing underground like a rat.

"Quick, now. You and Phyllis go first. Sher Khan and I will form the rear guard. Yes, you must. We're better armed. Quick before they've got over that last scare."

Quietly they crept along the passage, and when they had gained a spot which Geoffrey judged as being well over half-way to the courtyard he fired a shot from his revolver and yelled out some Tibetan cries. Then the little party continued their way, purposely making as much noise as they could.

They heard Thompson's shouts of encouragement and the patter of feet as the guards sped after them in pursuit.

Suddenly they saw the white lines of light shining through the chinks of the door. They had almost reached the courtyard. Shots rang out behind and a couple of bullets sped past Geoffrey's head with the sharp, loud crack which a bullet makes when it has been fired from close range and narrowly misses its mark. Drawing his revolver he returned the fire, and Sher Khan followed his example with his automatic, but with what effect it was impossible to tell.

This return fire, however, seemed to make their pursuers pause, as the "Tiger's" voice could again be heard cursing at them as cowards.

Phyllis and her father had now reached the door, which the missionary cautiously opened. He had no sooner done so, however, than he flung up his rifle and fired.

"Keep under cover," he called, "the courtyard is full of them!" The passage, as Geoffrey remembered, took a bend almost immediately after leaving the courtyard, and consequently they could not be taken in rear by any fire from a distance.

"Stay here," he said to Sher Khan; "I will have a look at the courtyard."

On joining the missionary he peeped through the door, which the latter had closed after firing, and saw that the courtyard was rapidly filling with Tibetans, almost all of whom were armed with rifles.

"Lie down flat," he cautioned Phyllis and her father; "these kind of chaps always fire high. Pick off any man you can make certain of, but try not to waste cartridges. I want to keep them at bay outside while Sher Khan and I settle those blighters behind."

He returned to Sher Khan, and almost immediately heard Mr. Merridew's rifle speak.

"Look here, Sher Khan, I want to entice those brutes in the passage on in force and then give them a couple more bombs. That ought to settle them for a bit and give us

MOTORING NOTES.

MOTORIST REPAYS IN KIND.

Issues Warrant Against Constable.

Glenwood, Iowa. Constable Nix arrested Mr. R. C. Townsend for passing a "stop" sign in his motor car. Mr. Townsend paid his fine and then bided his time until something happened. It did when the constable went past a "stop" sign.

Mr. Townsend went to Council Bluffs, where he consulted with legal authorities. Where officers immune from stopping at "stop" signs? Certainly not, he was told. So he got a warrant. Another officer made the arrest.

Constable Nix was fined 4/- and costs.

a chance of fighting our way across the courtyard to another passage." "Very good. I think I will turn on my lightning-lamp (i.e. electric torch), so that we may see directly one of the dogs reaches the bend."

He suited the action to his words, and a dozen shots rang out immediately from close quarters. But the shots were perfectly harmless. The missionary's rifle again spoke.

Geoffrey and Sher Khan could hear stealthy crawlings and whisperings. The "Tiger's" contingent in the passage were obviously massing before the assault, although there was no sign of any living person in the beam of the torch which lit the bend of the passage brilliantly.

Thompson's voice was again audible. He was now speaking in Tibetan, and was coaxing his men into bravery. Geoffrey could hear his words: "There are but four of them, and one of them is a woman and the other an old man. Come, there are thirty of us now, and brave men all. We are not lousy Tibetans. I will give a handful of rubies to the man who catches the young white man and the nigger alive."

It was fortunate that Sher Khan could not hear him thought Geoffrey, or there would have been no holding him. For to call a Pathan a "nigger" is to court the raising of a blood-feud.

Geoffrey took a Mills's bomb in each hand. That would only leave him with two and Sher Khan with three, but still he could "pull out" the safety-pins from the bombs, holding down the levers in position. Then he crawled to the corner. The enemy were very close; he could hear them breathing distinctly. He paused, and then lobbed both bombs simultaneously round the corner into the dark.

As he did so Mr. Merridew fired two shots in quick succession, and the hiss of the fuses was lost.

Both grenades exploded almost simultaneously. Geoffrey and Sher Khan at once darted round the corner and emptied their respective hand-weapons into the struggling mass. There were yells, groans, and shouts, but terror held away and the Tibetans could be heard running down the passage.

JAPANESE COMPETITION "QUITE FAIR"

Cheap Goods Of A Good Quality.

POSITION IN DUTCH EAST INDIES DEFENDED

The Hague, Yesterday.

Japanese competition in the Dutch East Indies was quite fair, declared Mr. Okada, leader of the Japanese cotton delegation, which has arrived in Britain to negotiate with the Lancashire cotton leaders. Mr. Okada declared that the delegation was later visiting Holland to learn what the Dutch Government had to propose. Japan would at present pursue a neutral course, he said.

It was of vital interest in a depressed world that people could buy goods of good quality for much lower prices than the European industries could make them, he declared.—Reuter.

Discussions Opened.

The Hague, Yesterday.

The members of the Japanese cotton delegation to-day discussed with the Dutch cotton industry delegates the difficulties of the question of the importation of cotton goods in the Dutch East Indies. The Netherlands outlined a basis for future discussions which the Japanese delegation promised to convey to Japan after which they will inform the Netherlands of the possibilities for future negotiations.—Reuter.

CONVERSATIONS TO BE RESUMED

London, Yesterday.
Resumed conversations with Japanese cotton industrialists will be held in London next Wednesday. A special Lancashire Committee, including representatives of every section of the cotton and artificial silk industries, has been appointed to take part in the discussions.—British Wireless Service.

CHINESE MINISTERS MEET IN LONDON.

"Unstable Situation In Far East" Discussed

Nanking, Yesterday.

It is officially learned that the Chinese Ambassadors to Moscow, Paris and London, Dr. W. W. Yen, Dr. Wellington Koo and Mr. Quo Tai-chi respectively, are holding an important conference at London.

The conversations are chiefly concerned with the "latest unstable situation in the Far East." It is understood that China's domestic problems have also been discussed.—Central News Agency.

JAPANESE INVASION OF CHANGHAI

The Soviet Consul-General asks for permission to send Russian guards into Manchuria, in order to secure adequate protection to the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The Soviet demand, it is alleged, has been turned down by the Manchukuo authorities.

Similar bandit-like activities on a minor scale were evident of late in many places in Kirin and Heilungkiang. According to Chinese reports, these disturbances were organised by the Chinese Volunteers with the object of destroying the means of communication wherever possible.—Central News Agency.

FUKIEN REVOLT.

Loyal Support For Nanking Assured.

SUN FO AND TAI CHI-TAO TO GO TO CANTON

Nanking, Yesterday.

It is learned from authoritative quarters that the Central Government has been assured of loyal support in its dealings with the Fukien rebels as the result of Mr. Yang Teh-chao's visit to the capital. It is also learned that the intransigent attitude of the Fukien rebels may compel the Central Government to launch a punitive campaign against them at an earlier date than is, prior to the holding of the Fourth Plenary Session of the Kuomintang.

With a view to securing a greater measure of co-operation between Nanking and Canton, the Central Government intends to dispatch Messrs. Sun Fo and Tai Chi-tao to the South in the near future.—Central News Agency.

MORE PLANES FOR CANTON SERVICE.

Two New Arrivals In Hong Kong.

Canton, Yesterday.

The Central Press is informed to-day that two planes ordered by the South-West Aviation Company arrived at Hong Kong yesterday and will be put into service by next year.—Central Press.

added for the second wicket before he returned a catch to Jamshedji. 67-2-33.

88 For 2 At Lunch
James Langridge, the Sussex all-rounder stayed with Walters until lunch, which was taken at 88 for 2. Walters being 43 and Langridge 5.

The combination of Nissar's express and Jamshedji's slow left-handed deliveries proved very effective, but unfortunately it was not backed up by the fieldsmen. The Indians had the cruellest of luck when first Colah, at short leg, and then Ramji, in the slips, missed Walters and Valentine off "alters". Walters and Langridge added 70 runs before the Worcestershire skipper was caught off Amar Singh. 143-3-78.

Walters' innings, which lasted 132 minutes and which included eight boundaries, was featured by very fine off-driving and cutting.

India secured another wicket before tea when Langridge stepped in front of a straight one from Nissar. 164-4-31. Jardine, the English skipper, and Valentine, the Kent amateur and prospective England skipper against Australia, were together when tea was taken at 216 for 4. Jardine being 26 and Valentine 28.

Splendid Batting

When play was resumed Jardine completed a faultless 50 after 132 minutes. He had only four boundaries. Valentine reached his half-century in 84 minutes, hitting one six and four boundaries.

The partnership assumed complete mastery over the bowling and the pair added 100 in 105 minutes. At the close of play they were still together after having added 180 for the fifth wicket in 115 minutes. Valentine has hit a six, a five, and seven boundaries in his 70 and Jardine is 53 not out with the England total at 294 for 4—75 runs on with six wickets in hand. Play will be resumed on Monday.—Reuter.
